

Unto Archduke Alastair of Canberry
From Earl Alonzo deWais-Inderal of the Principality of Korflok

Salutations unto your grace, and honor.

By this deed I convey to your grace - to be disposed of as you see fit - the lands and title (Sheriff) of the fiefdom of the Vale of Banderwal in the Kingdom of Debonai – the vale, with its nearly 3000 inhabitants, sports some of the most lovely arbors in the midlands, together with an excellent winery and a number of orchards.

This remarkably lush valley is extremely peaceful, and nestled in the heartland of the Kingdom, which is rarely disturbed. The house of Wais has long held the Vale as part of its extended holdings, and are glad to convey it to a personage of such honor and repute as the Archduke – to be considered as a freely given gift in celebration of understanding and the future.
