

The Eternal Fire, the Cleansing Flame, the Blazing Path

Description: Tathir is normally just referred to by their common name "the Fire". Worship of Tathir is also considered a philosophy, as the fire of life exists in nearly all things.

The fire is the power of flame, of energy, and of cleansing and determination. Fire purifies, and gives the opportunity for change. Fire also protects against evil, and creatures of the darkness and cold. Fire annihilates and destroys that which cannot survive the process of purification or cleansing, or those that refuse to renounce evil.

Followers of Tathir consider the pureness of fire to be holy, and symbolic of the fire of life within us. Followers of the fire provide shelter to those in need, providing both warmth and food as needed, and take up arms to protect others, striving to make the land safe and secure as they can. These acts strengthen the fire within them, and serve as examples for others to follow.

Prayers are given to the fire for warmth, protection, and safety. The fire is also believed responsible for many other good aspects of living creatures, such as the fire of inspiration, strong passion, and the will to overcome evil.

Dogma

Followers of the flame believe that all things are connected by the fire/spirit of life, and having that life or flame dampened or cut short is a blasphemy that must be opposed.

Those that die while following the flame have their fire return to the fire of the beginning, and become one with the goodness of the cosmos, one with the fire, one with Tathir.

Some followers of the fire become somewhat single minded (as is the nature of fire) in their pursuit and destruction of evil. While the fire shows no mercy to evil, those followers of Tathir who have let their passion become overly zealous, may find themselves becoming what they hunt, which has been known to result in spontaneous combustion and turning to ash of the offending cleric or follower.

Tenets Of The Faith

- Share the fire and its protection with all in need. Always defend the innocent.
- The cleansing flame or fiery destruction is the best tool against the minions of evil, they will either repent, or be destroyed by the flames
- Fiends and witches tend to abuse and taint the glory of fire, be cautious of them as foes.

Structure

While scattered temples to Tathir and the Fire may exist, there is not much of an organized religious structure, and the faith acts as an overall philosophy amongst the people, with a few sacred texts in common. The most famous of these are the Scrolls of Burning Letters.
