Hook-Chain +7 (3d6+4 and grab), Thrown 15.

Inner Faith

You can use inner faith 5/day. Save DC 16.

- Daylight. 1 hour, 120-ft. radius brilliance.
- Entreat the Angels. Enemies in 10-ft. radius within 100 ft. make Strength save or are levitated 10 ft. and held immobile in a beam of light until they are attacked.
- Stunning Fist. Target hit by unarmed attack makes Wisdom save or is stunned until end of your next turn. Large or non-humanoid creatures have advantage.

Divine Vessel

Holy Purity. Immune to disease, charm, fear, and possession.

Sanctuary. Spend action, until end of your next turn foes must make Wisdom save (DC 16) to attack you or allies within 10 ft. Broken if you or allies attack.

Slayer. Undead and fiends you deal damage to are dominated if they have 25 HP or fewer, then are destroyed five minutes later.

Speak with Dead. Pray for 10 minutes to invoke recently dead spirit. Ask five questions. It need not answer truthfully.

BACKGROUND

The Red Contessa is a heretic, and she has wed the fiend Anuma-Sitesh who was trapped in the perpetual gloom of the Bleak Gate seven centuries ago. The Contessa leads a coven of witches in the Risuri city of Flint, and her blood magic threatens the lives of thousands of potential converts to the Clergy.

You are a geneu credeto, a godhand, and you have not flesh but faith made manifest. The hierarchs of the Clergy would prefer to see this woman cast into the fires of the volcano that overlooks your capitol city Alais Primos, but they will be content if anyone slays her. You are to aid the king of Risur, a non-believer named Lorcan Finn, and treat his word as divine. Upon your return to Alais Primos any sins you must commit in this duty shall be expunged.

Oh, background? Where others were content to study the suffering of the saints, you trod their paths. You have tasted poverty but prefer wealth, since men must be driven to reach heavenward and touch the divine. Yet you would never harm an innocent to better your lot.

It matters not whence you came. You are who you made yourself.

EQUIPMENT & TREASURE

Holy scripture of Triegenes, the fisherman turned god. Humble book.

Catalogue of Fiends of the Demonocracy, by the blasphemous tongue of Ashima-Shimtu. Bound in silver and white leather.

Martyr's Fishhook Necklace. As a reaction you can change the target of a spell from an ally within 25 ft. to target you instead.

Urn of Holy Water. Blesses weapons, harms ghosts. 9 doses.
